SEVENTEEN FIRE ALARMS

High Wind and Dry Weather Contribute to Fire Menace During Last Four Days. No Serious Damage Done.

Beginning with three alarms on Monday, the firemen have had a busy week. Two serious brush fires, one on the old Bailey farm in West Andover now owned by Peter Hagopian and another at Lowell Junction on land of the Boston and Maine R. R. kept the men busy for several hours. The West Andover fire started from the burning of brush on a wood lot and forty acres were burned over. At Lowell Junction the fire supposed to have been started by sparks from an engine, burned over more than thirty acres.

The sounding of box 37 at the junction of Prospect Hill road and Salem street at ten o'clock in the evening was a false alarm. Just before noon on Tuesday, the men were summoned to a lively blaze on the corner of Phillips and Abbot streets. A fire started to burn up rubbish had crept into a pile of shingles and pea brush stored near the tool house and both water and chemicals were required to extinguish the fire.

Seven alarms was the record for Wednesday, four strokes of the bell four times, two still alarms and box 66 following one after the other in quick succession at 11:10, 12:30, 1:47, 2:30, 2:50, 3:45 and 4:04. All were grass and brush fires, box 66 being rung in by a small boy inadvertently directed to do so by some older person. This gave the leader truck a long, hard run for no purpose whatever as it was a second alarm for a brush fire on Magnolia avenue in Shawheen Village.

Another fire in the village was back of Canterbury street. Two of the alarms called the department to Hood's farm in West Andover where a brush fire burned over about five acres and also ran onto land owned by Mr. Boutwell. A fire in the dump on the Old Railroad ran dangerously near Dufour's land and accounted for another alarm. A fire on Ballardvale road was reported by means of a still alarm.

At nine o'clock Thursday morning the fire at Hood's farm again caused the sounding of an alarm. Lack of careful watching and a high wind had caused the fire of the previous day to break out again. The owners were notified by the firemen that it would be necessary for them to use a plow Taxicam Twitters, a successful middle-aged druggist, the originator of the "Triumphant Tincture," takes to himself as a bride an attractive widow whom his friends variously name at the relief of Mr. Brown, Mr. Black, Mr. White and Mr. Green.

Although the fair widow has led a checkered career with her former husband it finally appears that Brown, Black, Green and White are but aliases for the same person and that the widow is not a female Bluebeard who poisons with mushroom ketchup, but a thoughtful helpmeet whose purpose is

MASONIC LADIES' NIGHT

St. Matthew's Lodge Furnishes Royal Entertainment For Guests With Concert Followed By Collation and Dance.

TWO HOUSES RANSACKED

Burglars Make Breaks on Wolcott Ave. Early Saturday Evening Securing Money and Jewelry

Two houses on Wolcott avenue were ransacked by burglars early Saturday evening, the thieves making away with money, rings, watch, a safety razor and a revolver.

When Mrs. Frank Buttrick of 15 Wolcott avenue, accompanied by her two daughters, returned from the movies shortly after eight o'clock, she was startled to hear a noise in the back of the house followed by the slamming of a door and someone running through the back yard toward Maple avenue.

Gaining admittance through a very small window in the lavatory, the thieves had unlocked the back door to assure themselves of a means of escape and carefully drawing the curtains in the rooms on the upper floor had systematically gone through all the rooms but one when Mrs. Buttrick arrived.

Mrs. Buttrick and her son left the house at half past seven. Their movements were closely observed and entrance to the house gained immediately afterward.

The police were summoned, and after the Buttricks premises had been examined it was decided to visit those of Wright Stafford next door as it was known that the family was out of town for the week-end. A window was found open, and on further investigation it appeared that some of the thieves had probably been at work there at the same time that others were working at the Buttricks' house. Jewelry was also stolen from this house.

Although the Staffords had left for Worcester earlier in the day, the man had been to tend the furnace for the night and left everything in its usual order at that time.

On the evening of May 6, an Entertainment for the benefit of the Abbot Loyalty Fund will be given in Davis hall at 8 o'clock.

The program will be of unusual interest—Miss Ethel Frisella Foster, once a member of the Faculty and now a resident of national reputation—will read a group of modern poems, and a play (still in manuscript but soon to be published by Brentano) of which she has the exclusive reading rights.

The play, entitled "Mia's Mercy," was written by a Mt. Holyoke graduate, Louise Whitfield Gray, and has been presented by the 47 Workshop. The programme will include music by a Boston String Quartet and by the Abbot Glen club. Admission one dollar. Candy will be sold.

A varied entertainment program of songs, comedy sketches and instrumental music by the Light Opera Revue company followed by a collation and dancing made ladies' night as observed by St. Matthew's lodge of Masons Monday evening one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever held by this organization.

From the time when the American girls in their smart midday costumes of red white and blue danced onto the stage until the finale of "Kentucky Home" there was not a dull moment in the program. It seemed incredible that pianist, violinist, monologist, soloist, the dainty girls in their Alice blue gowns, the sunbonnet girls with gingham pinafores who sang of the "Swissmole" Hole, the Chinese madams, the dignified side of long ago who danced the minuet and the jany girls of today were all interpreted by only five entertainers.

The violin solos by Miss Helen Cowell were warmly applauded and she was obliged to respond to several encores.

Miss Janet Hervey the talented monologist, was a clever actor and won her audience even before she had spoken a word and her impersonation of "The Shop Girl" was excellent. In great contrast to a series of short humorous selections she read Edgar Guest's poem "Home" with great feeling.

The program opened with a well rendered overture "Lustspiel" by Sinclair's Balanced Sax orchestra and the offerings of the Revue were as follows:

American Girl	Company
Gypsy Dance (Madam)	Miss Cowell
Alice Blue Gown	Company
Masquerade (Goddess)	Miss Wilson
Monologues	Miss Hervey
Dance in the Forest	Miss Foster
Ten Leaves	Company
Heidi Kall (Fisher)	Miss Cowell
Soliman's Role	Miss Hervey and Foster
Just a Little Fellow	Miss Cowell
Triplet	Company
Lelebrated (Ensemble)	Miss Cowell
Olden Times	Miss Hervey
Kentucky Home	Company

The Revue company is composed of the following:

Miss Janet Hervey, entertainer; Miss Helen Cowell, violinist; Miss Margaret Foster, soprano; Miss Rose Levermore, contralto; Miss Reta Wilson, pianist.

After this part of the program the audience filed down stairs to the lower hall where a buffet supper consisting of chicken salad, rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee was served by Caterer Rhodes.

The hall was then cleared for dancing, and a program of fourteen dances was given to music by the Hammond orchestra.

Among those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cannon, Mrs. and Mrs. J. L. White, Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Lane.

FACTS REGARDING THE COAL STRIKE

The coal strike has failed to rouse a great deal of excitement in the minds of the public. The general attitude is that the price of coal must come down and that operators must clean house and do away with such wasteful methods and excessive profits as may exist, and the miners must give a full and good day's work for a fair day's pay. Higher wages for the same old rate of production are not to be thought of. Both sides ought to "come clean" and give the public its coal at reasonable prices.

Crank-case Service and Advice

Most motorists know that after 800 miles of use, the oil in their crank-case is thinned out and dirty. But often they do not realize what continued use of such oil means. They keep on adding new oil to the old used-up oil. And then they ask:

1. What has weakened the compression?
2. Why does my engine overheat so easily?
3. What made that bearing burn out?

Your engine requires a complete refill of fresh, high quality oil at least every 800 miles.

Active Octogenarian Celebrates Birthday

William Caldwell of Elm street, an active worker in the Baptist church celebrated his eightieth birthday on Friday, April 21. During the day he received many callers, as well as gifts of fruit and flowers. In the evening a reception was held attended by his neighbors and fellow workers in the Baptist church.

Mr. Caldwell is in the best of health and was able to enjoy the day to the utmost. Mr. Caldwell addressed the gathering of neighbors and friends and told them the secret of keeping young was in keeping cheerful and helping others. His guests hoped he would see many more happy birthdays.

Mr. Caldwell was born in Elgin, P. Q., Canada, on April 21, 1842 and 20 years later moved to New York state. At the close of the Civil war he went to Worcester in 1865 and was married. For 10 years he was an expert machinist with the Bigelow Machine Co. and in 1875 removed to Lawrence to enter the McKay Machine Co. When that concern was absorbed by the United States Shoe Machinery he was transferred to Winchester and remained there 10 years. Mr. Caldwell's last years in active service were with the U. S. M. Co. in Beverly, by which he was employed for forty-three years, serving them for thirty years as foreman. He retired on Oct. 1, 1911, after 53 years as a machinist.

Upon his retirement he came to Andover and has resided at the corner of Elm and Pine streets ever since. He has always been an active worker in the Baptist denomination wherever he has been located and he has served for years as deacon. He is a constant attendant and ardent supporter of the local Baptist church. Mr. Caldwell was twice married and his second wife who was a great worker in the Baptist church died a few years ago, and was beloved by all who knew her.

Two sons and one daughter helped in the celebration, Charles of Southbridge who holds an important position with the Optical Co. there, Fred of the General Electric Co., of Schenectady, N. Y., and Mrs. H. Earl Richardson of Winchester.

Legion Listens to Talk on Fire Prevention

An illustrated talk on "Fire Prevention in the A. E. F." was given at the meeting of Andover Post, No. 8, The American Legion, Tuesday evening by E. V. French, a member of the Post, and during the war a major in the Q. M. C. and Chief of the Bureau of Fire Prevention with headquarters at Tours.

After describing his trip over on the Leviathan, Mr. French showed pictures of the huge docks built by our army to facilitate the unloading of supplies of all sorts and told of the means taken to prevent their destruction by fire in the storage depots. The comparatively slight loss he laid to three factors: the climate of France, the excellent discipline and the short duration of the war after the arrival of American troops. One slide depicted a means of fighting fire not ordinarily practiced in this country, in which a barrack adjoining a burning building was being taken down in very short order. The work at the refrigerating plants, the air craft assembling centers, the aviation fields, and at the hospitals, was also described.

The speaker said his outstanding impression of the war was the ability of the American Army to conceive projects on a large scale and then rapidly to go ahead and do things. Despite the inevitable waste, he felt the United States had reason to be proud of its part in the World War. After a very interesting talk refreshments were served.

Commander Hayes ordered the flag to be displayed on Thursday in honor of the centenary of General Grant's birth.

Siftings

There has recently come into our hands the printed report of the committee appointed November 19, 1855 to take into consideration the naming of the streets and which was presented at an adjourned town meeting held Monday, March 17, 1856.

The report was evidently considered and the usage of nearly three quarters of a century has with a few exceptions sanctioned their judgment. Green street and Pike street are now known as Morton street, and Porter street and Phillips street have mysteriously changed places. Back street is more euphoniously called Highland road; Mineral street, Red Spring road; and Village street, Shawheen road. Of Downing and Frye streets—one is lost even as a traveled way and the other has changed its name.

The allusion to the hay scales formerly in Elm square, Willard Pike's Soap Works, Jacob Chickering's Piano Forte Factory on Pearson street, and the Universalist Meeting House are reminders of places that were well known in the fifties, while the names of N. W. Hasen, Peter French, David Hidden, Asa A. Abbott, Henry Gray, Capt. Joshua Ballard, Dr. Nathaniel Swift and many others are those of representative men in the Andover of that period.

The note about the disagreement of the committee in naming Pynchard avenue shows the wisdom of the majority. "Universalist Court" would seem utterly without reason today and we wonder who was the perverse member of the committee.

The report was as follows:

The subscribers, a Committee of the Town to ascertain the names of the streets, have attended to that duty, and hereby report:

That the street formerly the Essex Turnpike, near Lawrence to Reading, be called, Main Street.

The street from Main Street, near the Hay Scales, by the house of Hobart Clark, Esq., to the North Andover line, be called, Elm Street.

At last the much discussed Shawheen sign which for a few days was an eyesore on the lot at the corner of Main and Chestnut streets has actually disappeared—the huge expanse of the billboard itself resplendent with its background of white paint and bright lettering, its substantial props and trim green lattice.

With the assistance of a small army of men its huge bulk was raised from the position where it has indignantly lain prone for many months and departed on a truck for parts unknown.

Leaves and rubbish have been raked, the fence mended, and the center of the lot decorated with a neat but diminutive sign, "Trespassers will be Prosecuted." We are now waiting to see whether the new sign will find favor in the eyes of young America during the baseball season.

The Townsman

Miss Agnes Park's Kindergarten

I cannot let pass a statement made in a recent Townsman that Miss Agnes Park "never had any occupation outside her own doors." For years she had a Kindergarten. Donald Churchill and I were her first pupils and we learned our A B C's jumping up and down on her hair-cloth sofa. The German influence was at its height at that time and we studied our German primer along with our English one. The German book had fables and moral stories. On the rare occasions when Don could not be present, I used to plead for a double dose of fables for it was more than I could bear to have the whole moral directed at my lone self.

It was not long before Miss Park had all the small children belonging to the Theological and Academy faculties and George Ferguson Smith, Agnes Smith Stackpole, Edith and John Dove and a number of others. As the kindergarten grew in noise and numbers Miss Park moved her school room to the house so long occupied by Miss Emily Carter.

The school soon needed larger quarters and was moved again down the street to the house later used for many years by Professor and Mrs. Downs. Andover was very cold and windy in those days. There were no trolleys or automobiles to shorten the distance and little hands and feet and noses suffered. Miss Park used to wear a long fur-lined circular cloak and on bitter days three or four of us used to get under it and walk protected to school.

Miss Park had a fine disregard for appearances and never cared if she presented a curious sight with several pairs of small feet showing beneath her cloak and a very irregular and agitated lumpiness marring the graceful swing of her cape behind. The only important thing to her was that we were comfortable and in great spirits. When we had been especially good, Miss Park used to recite for us. John Gilpin was our favorite, with Goldsmith's "Elegy on the Death of a Mad Dog" as a close second. Her ability to commit to memory long passages never failed her. At seventy-two she spent a night in the country with my sister and brought along Noyes's poem so that she might finish memorizing "The Barrel Organ" before she went to sleep.

Miss Park was one of the pioneer kindergartners of the country and I am sure no one ever put more of the spirit of play into work than she did. Her enthusiasm was contagious and she made us feel the same zest in the exercise of our mental powers as we did in our physical gymnastics. She created for us a world of interests.

Has Written Words for Ijinsky's "Cradle Song."

Mrs. Helen B. Knox, who formerly lived on Hidden Road, has recently written words for Ijinsky's beautiful "Cradle Song," and Victor's April announcement carries the song sung by Sophie Braslau. Musical America comments on the words as "an adequate bit of writing," and critics everywhere have commented very favorably on the success which Mrs. Knox has attained in setting the Russian song to English words without losing the delicate story which the music tells.

Besides appearing as one of the feature records of the Victor issue, the song has also been published in sheet music form and has attained a large distribution throughout the country.

Small Audiences to Hear Lecture on Nutrition

Barely twenty-five persons gathered in Pynchard hall Tuesday evening to listen to the lecture on "Nutrition with Special Reference to Growing Children" given by Mrs. Alaina W. Sandwell of the Division of Hygiene, Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the public health committee of the Red Cross and the speaker was introduced by Dr. Claude M. Fues.

Mrs. Sandwell emphasized the importance of her subject by stating that since the World War, children in this country are not improving as fast as those in Europe where a great deal of attention is being paid to their welfare. The lecture was profusely illustrated with lantern slides showing the value of various foods, particularly milk, eggs, fresh fruit and vegetables.

Semi-annual Meeting of the Historical Society

Dr. A. V. Kidder of the Phillips Academy Department of Archaeology was the speaker at the semi-annual meeting of the Andover Historical Society held in the society rooms on Monday evening.

It had been announced that he would speak on the "Spaniards and the Pueblo Indians" but he chose a broader subject tracing the development of civilization beginning with the wandering tribes in Central Asia who made their way across Behring Straits, then spanned by a narrow neck of land, down the western coast of North America. The climate and soil of New Mexico and Arizona are very favorable for the preservation of archaeological remains, and excavations and studies in this section have revealed evidences of what would otherwise have been unknown stages of human development. During their change from a wandering race of hunters to farmers with more settled dwelling places, their progress in civilization was very rapid. As an example of this progress, Dr. Kidder cited the Pueblo Indians who had the germ of a development which would have made them one of the great peoples of America, but their incentive to progress was destroyed by the arrival of the Spaniards.

At the close of the very interesting address, Dr. Abbott who presided at the meeting congratulated the members of the society on their opportunity to hear this history of a race which gave a broad background for historic research of later times.

A social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served by Mrs. Albert W. Lowe, Mrs. William Cheever and Miss Ella Holt.

During the business meeting a resolution on the death of Miss Agnes Park was read by Professor George T. Eaton of Phillips Academy and voted placed on the records of the society. Resolutions on the death of Judge George H. Poor and Samuel D. Stevens of North Andover have been read at the monthly meetings of the society and they too have been placed on the records. The resolutions follow:

Resolutions on the Death of Miss Agnes Park

No evening party on Andover Hill in the late 60's and 70's could be complete unless Miss Agnes Park and her gifted brother were there to present some charade or monologue or clever parody on current events. And as the years grew in to the 80's and 90's with what solicitude did this ever watchful daughter care for mother and father as they passed to the western bound of life. We who saw this woman in this period of her life were moved by her passionate interest in her garden and in her home flowers.

Her punctual and faithful attendance at the meetings of the directors of the Andover Village Improvement society testified to her love for Andover and all its belongings. No phase in the busy life of her native town remained outside of her loving thought and direct participation.

Her connection with the Andover Historical society starts with its very beginnings in 1911 as its first secretary and she has given and loaned many choice articles to its rooms. A source of great satisfaction to Miss Park was the gift of Miss Emily Means to the Historical society of the pipe organ which accompanied Miss Park's mother to Andover in 1836.

She had retentive memories for friends and for all their endeavors

Her span of life took in the brilliant years of the Theological Seminary, the notable administration of Dr. Samuel Taylor and of Dr. Bancroft and the memorable growth of Abbot Academy under the Misses McKee, Miss Means and Miss Bailey.

And so her life was rich and full and free and for all she was and for all she did the Andover Historical society treasures her memory and here records its loss at her passing out from its board of officers with the laying down of her earthly life.

(Signed)
George T. Eaton,
Mrs. Ida McCurdy,
Mrs. Frances M. Abbott.

Resolutions on the Death of Samuel D. Stevens

The directors of the Andover Historical society at their regular meeting April 3, 1922, desire to place upon record their profound feeling of sorrow in the death of a fellow member of the society, the late Samuel D. Stevens of North Andover.

As a member of our society he was a frequent and helpful attendant at its meetings. As president of our sister society in North Andover, where he served faithfully for so many years, he was brought into close relationship with this society through a deep and hearty interest in the spirit of righteousness, a trait of character which he possessed in a remarkable degree.

Mr. Stevens' interests, moreover, were not confined entirely to historical matters of local importance, but were widespread, thus intensifying in a marked degree the best in all that has been our heritage from the founders of our New England colonies.

To his immediate family and to the North Andover Historical society, we therefore can only express our sympathy in the loss of one whose example in the community in which he lived is well worthy of emulation, and whose friendship was far beyond the value of earthly possessions.

It is therefore unanimously voted that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the records, and also that a copy be sent to the family of Mr. Stevens and to the North Andover Historical society.

(Signed)
Charles E. Abbott,
Ida M. McCurdy,
John V. Holt.

Resolutions on Death of George H. Poor

The death of Judge George H. Poor in Boston on March 3, 1922, deserves special recognition by the Andover Historical society of which he was a life member, as few men of his generation have been more helpful in the public affairs of the town than he.

He was born in the North Parish of Andover in 1841 before the town was divided, and was descended from Daniel Poor, one of the earliest settlers. His education was gained chiefly in the schools of Andover, here he read law and here he began the practice of law, in the office of Squire Hasen although early in his career he opened an office in Boston, where he removed with his family in 1905.

His friendly disposition, legal ability and integrity gave him the confidence and esteem of his fellow-citizens, leading them to entrust many of their private and public business interests to his care. For a quarter of a century he acted as Moderator of our town meetings, and for two terms was elected Treasurer of the town. The School Board had his wise service for three years and for sixteen years he was treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the Pynchard Free School. He also represented the Andover District in the State Legislature in 1872.

In the Civil War he served in the 35th Regiment of Massachusetts Infantry and for the rest of his days was a loyal member of our General William F. Bartlett G. A. R. Post, No. 99.

From descent, natural taste and personal knowledge he was keenly interested in Andover's past history and helpfully alive to her welfare.

Resolved therefore that this appreciation of his strong manhood and devotion to the interests of our town be entered in the records of our society and that a copy of it be sent to his bereaved daughter.

Loan Exhibit of Art Treasures Attracts Many Visitors

A remarkable loan exhibition of fabrics, pottery, etchings and paintings forming an interesting study in color and design was assembled by the art department at the November clubhouse Monday afternoon.

Many persons, not only from Andover, but also from Lawrence visited the clubhouse during the afternoon to enjoy the exhibit and stayed for a social hour and a cup of tea. In the group of textiles were several beautiful Paisley shawls, damasks from Spain and Italy, two fine examples of modern Gobelin tapestries, Turkish rugs, Moorish, Russian and Chinese embroideries.

Two stained glass medallions rich and lovely in design and color were loaned by Lewis G. Flagg, a worker in stained and mosaic glass for church and domestic decoration. Mr. Flagg formerly lived in Andover.

The display of pottery both ancient and modern, showed the rich colors of Damascus, Sevres, Delft, Dresden, Wedgwood, Lowestoft, Rookwood and Paul Revere Ware. Among the pictures shown were etchings by Mr. LeBoutillier, a water color copied from Whistler by Miss Alice Jenkins, a valuable copy from Rembrandt by an unknown artist and a painting by Meiswiler. Mrs. G. M. R. Holmes, Mrs. Benjamin R. Bradley and Miss Jane B. Carpenter, attired in costumes of the olden times had charge of the exhibits and explained them to the visitors.

The climax of the afternoon was the showing of the picture of Mrs. Siddons after Gainsborough which took place at half past four. Following the notes on the trumpet blown by the band, Mrs. C. W. Henry, two ladies, Mrs. Edgar C. Holt and Mrs. J. Harry Kidder, resplendent in knee breeches, coats with gold braid, and cocked hats, drew back the curtains revealing the Gainsborough posed by Mrs. Gerard Chapin.

In a room full of the rich colors of tapestries and pottery the artistic blending of the greens and yellows of the tea table, in flowers, candles, candlesticks, and table runner made a charming picture. The was read by Mrs. Eben A. Baldwin and Mrs. Frederick N. Chandler who wore old-fashioned gowns of green silk with lace fichus.

The very original and delightful afternoon was planned by Mrs. Frances P. McCellan ably assisted by Miss Alice Jenkins.

Fennerty and Mrs. Arthur Tuttle.

There will be an opportunity to secure refreshments during intermission. Tickets for the dance may be secured by past members of the school only upon application to the Treasurer of the Alumni Association, Miss Ella Holt, 22 Maple avenue.

Mission Circle Elects Officers

The Baptist Ladies' Mission Circle met in the vestry on April 20. All the officers were re-elected for the coming year save the secretary, Mrs. Gilbert Moore, who has removed from town.

The board stands as follows: president, Mrs. C. L. Wilson; vice president, Mrs. John Bacon; secretary, Mrs. Henry S. Jenkins; treasurer, Miss Margaret Caldwell; corresponding secretary, Miss Edna P. Todd. The program began with a Scripture reading and the song, "Jesus Saves" after which the company listened with great interest to readings from "Missions" which told of people who have accomplished much in this work for God's kingdom. The session closed with a hymn and prayer.

College Combines Study With Job

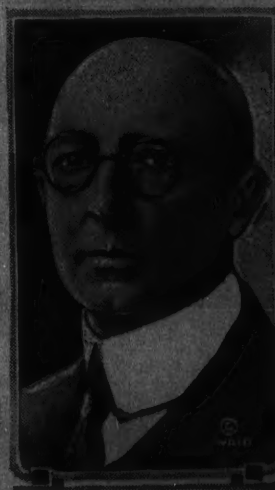

"YOUNG men, wishing to succeed, must realize that trained men have better chances than untrained. It always was so in the history of our Great New England and it always will be so. Yet training takes time and that is what discourages a good many young fellows. When however a college has made it possible to combine study with a job on salary—thus learning and applying at the same time, a short-cut to success has undoubtedly been found." That is what Frank P. Speare, President of Northeastern University, said at the Y. M. C. A. in Boston, referring to the approaching graduation day of Northeastern's Engineering School.

The number of students in Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Chemical Engineering is now 820. The number of students in 1910 was only 8. These figures show how the idea of co-operative education has grown in a few years. It is a system that combines work on a job with technical training and obviates for employer and student the unhappy breaking-in period that usually faces the man who hires and the man who tries to work after leaving school or college.

In a statement recently delivered to a number of engineering firms and contractors in Boston and vicinity, Dean Eli made the system of the School of Engineering clear.

The School of Engineering, Northeastern University, is the highest development of "learning by doing." Its students alternate in their study between the classroom and industrial plants. They spend a certain number of weeks in studying the theory of engineering at college. Then, they spend a like period on the actual job.

This practical experience, lack of which often is the college man's greatest handicap, is made possible through the co-operation of many of the largest industrial establishments in this part of the country. More than 150 concerns already have recognized these and other advantages of co-operating with the School of Engineering and employ students because they are available at a wage which is satisfactory to both.

In practice there are two student-workers to each job in a co-operating plant. During the five weeks that A is on the job, B is in college. When B goes on the job for the next five weeks, A returns to the classroom.

The only variation from this plan of operation is in the case of freshmen.

On the actual job, the student learns how to get along with men. He acquires the rare characteristic, executive ability, which employers always are seeking in men, and which the men themselves must have to rise in their jobs.

One Telegram-Ally Apologizes

We publish the following communication at the request of the author, but with a feeling that it is but slight apology for the disgusting piece of newspaper work to which it refers, an apology for that is more than due from the newspaper itself. When a news writer so far forgets the decency of his high calling as to put into print such a story as the Lawrence-defender-of-all-Andover-irregulars printed on Friday last the single course open to an outraged community is very clear. The communication is clear so far as it goes.

Lawrence, Mass.,
April 26, 1922

To the Editor of the Townsman:
An article appeared last Friday evening in the Lawrence Telegram concerning the apparent omission in the Andover World War book of the part the navy men of Andover took in the World War.

I gave the story to my friend, the managing editor, who is a fellow mariner, which resulted in the article as published, which, unfortunately but unintentionally may have reflected upon the editor of the "Andover World War Book".

Perhaps I may take this opportunity of offering my sincere apology to Dr. Fues for what was certainly not intended as any criticism whatever upon his able and competent editing of what was a thankless task at least. We know that no mortal can write even such a comprehensive book and please everyone.

My sole object in this matter is to bring out without malice and avoiding all personalities the fact that some seventy-five out of 583 "Service Men" of Andover enlisted in the U. S. Navy, several enlisting in the Naval Unit April 7, 1917, being the first group of units to enlist from Andover after war was declared; that this date was arranged months before and that no attempt was made in any way to get ahead of or belittle the glory of our army comrades, who enlisted five days later. Those days we were all volunteers in the two great arms of the service, equal at the start. When we held up our hands and signed up we automatically lost our power to will our actions, and we went and did as ordered, instantly. We had no say about it.

Now when the press at that time practically ignored the formation of an Andover Naval unit, we swallowed our pride and tried to forget it, only to be totally cast out of the war book, accidentally no doubt, but out nevertheless. Sort of a streak of luck against the whole sea-going crew.

I would prefer to let bygones be bygones and forget the past and see if some arrangement could not be made wherein fair play could be assured and the navy at least be recognized.

Here is one instance,—we have a young navy man who is a direct descendant of the original settlers of Andover, of the fighters in the Revolutionary war, war of 1812, and Civil war, and as this book mentioned it to be used in the public schools, his children will wonder what he did in the World War. They will have a regular hunt trying to find the United States Navy mentioned.

Cannot some fair-minded taxpayer of Andover who helped to pay for the war history appropriation come to the rescue with the right answer?

HORACE HALE SMITH.

A Low Price for a Big Job

The bids for constructing Main Street place the town in a fortunate position. It will be able to undertake the work with a margin to go and come on of approximately ten thousand dollars, with an assured contractor of standing and ability, that should give the town all that it has hoped to get, namely, the best Main Street in the State. The editor was recently criticised for using the word "best" with the theory that that represented a sort of display that was of no real value, but the word is not used in that relation at all. The word is used to indicate that the town is to get a street "best" in appearance, and what is much more, "best" for the service that it must render.

A serious phase that has developed in connection with the Main Street work has to do with the placing underground of all the wires, and a removal from the street of all the poles not absolutely necessary. This is referred to as a disturbing situation, but we believe in the final result will be nothing more than temporary, for it is inconceivable that the one opposing factor, the Gas Company, can take the position with such an important project as this under way, that it will not bear its share of the burden involved. The Gas Company has had a long franchise and a valuable one in Andover. It has been treated with the utmost consideration under every condition that has arisen, and even though the expense may be large at the present time, it is a slight expense compared with the steady and constantly growing income received from the big business that the company does in gas and electricity in the town. It is to be sincerely hoped that the long and agreeable relations that have existed may be still further cemented at this time by a co-operation on the part of the Gas Company with the town, that will show the recognition of their responsibilities and their obligations to the town.

With the street railway it is difficult. They must under the present system of operation maintain poles for trolley line supports, and if the situation works out as it should, they will be the only poles to be left on the Main Street.

The attitude of the telephone company has been admirable, and the spirit of co-operation evidenced by their construction chief, Mr. Mahoney, is all that could be desired.

We again assert the strong conviction that the Gas Company people are not going to be the only ones to renig on this important improvement.

Editorial Cinders

With the exception of the small block of stores on Essex street, and the construction of the new dormitory at Phillips Academy, there does not appear to be very much building activity yet under way in Andover. There is, however, very live interest in real estate and many sales are noted. The town cannot much longer get along upon the swapping of houses and exchange of properties where there is no increased facility provided. That means within the near future an era of building. Costs should be much lower than they are, but there is altogether too much evidence that they are not going to be reduced materially in the near future if at all. Under these circumstances the attitude of the man who wants a house is bound to be reflected in his willingness to pay the extra cost and go about the construction. The town needs many new residences to keep pace with its natural growth; it needs still more residences to keep pace with the increasing interest which the public at large is bound to have in the improving conditions that Andover presents as a home town.

Quite a bit of underground interest was known to exist before the last March meeting in connection with the feeling of some people that there should be a celebration of the two hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Andover. The interest was not sufficient to lead to any definite action, and it was wise that it was not, because it is pretty difficult to see why that particular anniversary should be celebrated. A fifty-year period is sound; it represents changed conditions that may very properly be commemorated. Andover had a most notable event at the end of its two hundred and fifty years of life, and should have an even more impressive function twenty-five years hence. That ought to be a sufficient recognition of growth, progress and developed citizenship. There is now a suggestion that we are, however, to be bunched by some outside publication that will endeavor to issue a "souvenir edition" representing all the latest arts in leg-pulling for advertising of no value. The Townsman has turned the proposition down flat, in the belief that such publication is of no real service to the community, and represents only a certain type of newspaper activity that loses no opportunity to fatten up its fortunes on any kind of pretext that may be invented. It would not seem as if Andover merchants could be induced to become very much interested in this sort of a game.

Shortly after there was an alarm from box 28 for a chimney fire in Ballardvale. The alarm from box 4 and box 66 were both for a brushfire on the land between Corbett and Main streets in Shawheen village. Shakespeare Playhouse Company Presents "Candida"

A rather meagre but very enthusiastic audience attended the excellent production of Bernard Shaw's "Candida" which the Shakespeare Playhouse company of New York presented in the Town hall last Friday evening under the auspices of the Phillips Academy Dramatic Club.

Shaw's play, a difficult production to give well, was finely handled in every detail, the part of the young poet receiving very exceptional treatment at the expert hands of Mr. Frank McEntee, under whose direction the play was staged.

"The Dramatic Club is offering its own players in three plays at the Town hall this evening.
The cast of characters for "Candida" follows:

Discuss Placing of Wires

A conference was held in the town house Monday evening when representatives of the Lawrence Gas company, the New England Telephone company and the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company met with the selectmen, board of public works and the finance committee to discuss changes in the location of wires and piping preliminary to the rebuilding of Main street.

The original plan called for placing all wires underground, but when it was ascertained that this would entail considerable expense to abutters it was thought best not to remove all the wires.

The Lawrence Gas company is already under contract with the town of Andover to place its wires underground from the square to Chestnut street according to an agreement entered into with the street lighting committee in 1916, but never carried out because of the war. The cost of this work was placed at $10,000.

The board of public works wish to have this arrangement extended as far as Chestnut avenue. The representative of the company did not accede to this request but the matter will be given further consideration. If these wires could be disposed of and all remaining overhead wires be placed on iron standards instead of wooden poles the appearance of Main street would be much improved.

Many of the wires of the telephone company are already underground. Some of the service piping to house will be renewed. The state board of public works has prepared plans and specifications for the work which will be done under the direction of the local board of public works.

Blind residents of Denver will be assured of safe passage across busy streets by means of blasts on police whistles which will be furnished to them free by the city. Traffic officers will see that all traffic is suspended when a blind person blows his whistle, until the blind pedestrian is safely across.

Mr. Farnam's Recital in the Academy Chapel

Mr. Farnam's reputation of being one of the most perfect, if not indeed the most perfect technician on the organ bench in America to-day was well sustained by his recital in the chapel of Phillips Academy last Wednesday evening. A reviewer can hardly do justice to his technique with the simple observation that there is virtually nothing to be said about it. It is merely to be admired. But more than this, Mr. Farnam is by no means a mere technician. His registration is as admirable as his technique. Many who heard him play Stoughton's "The Enchanted Forest" on the splendid organ at Emanuel Church in Boston last Tuesday evening must have asked themselves whether they had ever heard more marvelous tone-painting by means of registration. There was a forest and it certainly was enchanted.

Concerning Mr. Farnam's programmes a conservative critic might allow himself at least a few words of discussion. The programmes reveal very decidedly Mr. Farnam's training and his predilections. One wonders whether they might not be weighted down considerably more. Boellman is known primarily by his much played Gothic Suite, a composition that does not grow on one with much playing or hearing. His Fantaisie Dialogue, written originally for organ and orchestra, is a considerably more interesting number. The movement of these and accompaniment between the various organs was splendidly brought out by Mr. Farnam. Both numbers of George Jacob's, the modern French composer, "Les Heures Bourgeoises," the "Sundae" and the "Vintage" were extremely interesting. If one likes programme music the "Sundae" is a splendid example. Here again one may say the sun truly rose in all its dignity and splendor. The climax, the full blast with the final long sustained chord, was tremendous. The vintage song was so attractive as to make one wonder whether it might not be regrettable to lose such compositions altogether. But we are told that the old Romans had a feast at which though wine was freely used it had to be called milk, vinum lac nuncupatur. Perhaps we shall still have feasts at which milk will be used freely but will be called wine, and that such vicious nomenclature may still produce rollicking vintage songs. Or will there be a new class called "milk songs?"

With regard to the Bach Choral Preludes which Mr. Farnam played, one who is conversant with the words of the first Choral: "Hark! a voice says 'All is mortal,'" would like the tempo somewhat slower than that at which Mr. Farnam took it, even the Schweitzer calls attention to the fact that the hymn breathes peace and hope and is not a mere funeral dirge. As for the second prelude: "Rejoice ye Christians, folk, rejoice!"—a brimming over with happiness—one may dispute whether it is more effective with full organ with pedal choral with the tuba, as Mr. Farnam played it, or registered more quietly and brightly as with flute and piccolo for the joyful accompaniment and the violoncello for the cantus firmus. With Mr. Farnam's taste one would have expected the latter rendering.

Mr. Stokowski, the conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, recently scored the Pasacaglia for Orchestra and referred to it as the greatest of Bach's organ works, and of course one of the greatest compositions in all musical literature. Schweitzer remarks concerning the great Toccata of Bach that one should only continue to play it as a postlude and that the congregation will ultimately tarry to listen. The writer still lives in blissful anticipation of that day. Perhaps it may come, and similarly if a few visiting organists will play the Pasacaglia (Mr. Courbin played it last January) the audience will some day grow to like it.

Mr. Jepson's "Pantomime" was interesting as were also the numbers by him which Mr. Farnam played in Boston last Tuesday. One wishes he would have added to his Andover programme the little Zingarella number. The Ave Maria of Henselt showed that Mr. Farnam possesses feeling as well as virtuosity. The intermezzo from Widor's Sixth Symphony formed a brilliant conclusion to a most interesting evening. A Bonnet Reverie was added as a pleasing encore.

One wonders whether a Rheinberger, Beethoven of the organ as he has been called, deserves quite the oblivion to which he has been relegated, and also whether from the point of view of intrinsic worth the compositions of a Karg-Elert and a Reger might not appear more frequently than they do on modern programmes. It seems a pity that where there is such brilliancy of technique it should not be devoted to equally great depth. Andover has now had the privilege of hearing in Bonnet, Von, Courbin and Farnam probably the four greatest organ virtuosos in America.

Annual Meeting of Woman's Union of South Church

The annual meeting of the Woman's Union of the South church was held yesterday afternoon in the ladies' parlor with Miss Mary Alice Abbott presiding. Reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. Nathan C. Hamblin, and by the treasurer, Mrs. F. H. Jones, as well as by the chairmen of the various committees.

Mrs. Frederic G. Moore gave the report of the nominating committee and the following officers were elected: president, Miss Mary Alice Abbott; vice president, Miss Mary Bell; secretary, Mrs. Edgar Folk in place of Mrs. Nathan C. Hamblin, resigned; treasurer, Mrs. F. H. Jones; chairman of the domestic committee, Mrs. George T. Abbott; hospitality committee, Mrs. F. L. Brigham; sewing committee, Mrs. C. Madeleine Hewes; social committee, Mrs. Edgar G. Holt; prayer meeting committee, Mrs. John Ferguson; missionary committee, Mrs. John V. Holt.

Contributions were voted to Pleasant Valley, Tenn., where a physician will be aided in his work among tubercular patients, to the Chinese Mission in Boston, the New York American Bible society and the Billings Polytechnic Institute in Montana.

After the business was concluded Mrs. Henry C. Sanborn and Mrs. Philip Ripley rendered a delightful piano duet and Mrs. Frederic G. Moore sang a solo. Miss Fannie Davis, formerly superintendent of the Andover Guild and now president of the Lawrence Y. W. C. A., spoke on "The Girl of Today." Miss Davis told of the average girls with whom she had come in contact in her work, girls who had left school to go to work and who without the restraints of a home, in unaccustomed circumstances often were caught in a madroom where they lost themselves. Thinking that if they were dressed in the latest fashion, they became ladies even without a lady's real attributes yet they were quick to take suggestions and adopt higher ideals.

Miss Davis felt that it was the duty of older women to lend such girls a helping hand and that they had a great responsibility not only in their opportunity to help individuals but also in maintaining high standards in the class to which such girls

President Goodhue Comments on Financial Outlook

The International Acceptance Bank, Inc. of which F. Abbot Goodhue, son of Mrs. F. E. Goodhue of School street, is the president, celebrated its first anniversary this week.

The news story on the occasion written for the New York Times of April 21 is as follows:

The International Acceptance Bank, Inc., celebrated its first anniversary this week. In a statement covering the first year's operations it is stated that in spite of the general and drastic shrinkage in international trade, the new institution has been able to attract a volume of business such that, with about $13,000,000 of its acceptance outstanding, it occupies ninth place among the accepting banks and trust companies of the United States.

Paul M. Warburg, Chairman of the Executive Committee, stated that the first year's results seem to indicate the policies and expectations of the organization; that expert knowledge and intimate affiliations with leading banks and banking firms as stockholders at home and abroad would open to the International Acceptance Bank vast opportunities for useful service and profitable business without its being compelled to establish foreign branches.

Commenting on the general financial outlook, Mr. Goodhue, President of the bank, said:

"Of course the future of foreign trade is dependent to a great degree upon Europe's political and economic developments. We are all hoping that the Geneva conference will bring about some tangible results. Pending such a development, however, which I believe alone can effect an appreciable and sustained revival of foreign commerce, the International Acceptance Bank, Inc., is directing its efforts toward diversifying to American markets a larger share in financing the existing volume of world trade."

"There offers at the present time a great opportunity for our banks in this respect. America having two advantages—a free gold market and stable gold currency, while trade and banking in other countries suffer the severe handicap of the uncertainties of their widely fluctuating exchanges."

"The Federal Reserve Board, through its recent revision of its acceptance regulations, has greatly facilitated the development of American acceptance banking. Particularly in dealing with foreign countries the elimination of some of the restrictions, necessary as they were in the beginning, will enable American banks to compete more effectively with British banks and will help to put dollar acceptances on a par with sterling bills in world markets."

On Saturday evening there will be the reading and concert at Davis hall, else where announced.

Miss Carpenter, assisted by some of the undergraduates, is arranging an Historical Exhibition of photographs and articles illustrating the history of the school. This will be in one of the rooms of the John Esther Gallery on Wednesday and Saturday afternoon, with a small admission.

For the following week something on a large scale is planned, of which the details will be announced later, an Out-door Food Bazaar which will interest the whole town.

GIRLS FRIENDLY SALE

save the originator of the "Triumph Tincture" from a lawsuit has been unfortunately misinterpreted.

The distracted Twitters who pass through the various stages of bliss, perplexity, fear, and relief that it will not be his turn next, was well impersonated by Miss Helen Smith. His clerk and apprentice, Timbous, and the lively but interfering housemaid, Peggy, of whom he is much enamored, were played by Marjorie Pomeroy and Annie Noss. The part of the attractive young widow was taken by Miss Lillian Johnson.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Taraxacum Twitters	Helen Smith
Lydia, his wife	Lillian Johnson
Cecily, Lydia's sister	Phyllis Cunningham
Timbous, the druggist's clerk	Marjorie Pomeroy
Peggy, the maid	Annie Noss
Tom Trap, a commercial traveler	Bertha Cuthill
Farmer Wheatster	Ethel Hilton

Cake and ice cream were sold after the play.

Abbott Day is Coming on May 6

This will be the opportunity for every friend of Abbot Academy to help with the Loyalty Endowment Fund which students and alumni are enthusiastically working for.

Why does Abbot Academy need an Endowment Fund? Wasn't it endowed by Madam Sarah Abbot a hundred years ago, and hasn't it been living on that endowment ever since?

Listen a moment. Madam Abbot's first gift was $1000, and with that money the building now called Abbot Hall was begun on one acre of land given by Deacon Mark Newman. They were both generous gifts, and the greatest ever made to the school in that they laid the foundation for what has since been accomplished. At Madam Abbot's death her benefactions were increased to $10,000. Many kind and generous friends have since made gifts for one purpose and another, and by careful management the school property has increased to its present condition, but all these years Abbot Academy has earned its own living.

The great increase in administrative and living expenses, has made necessary great increase in the price of tuition and board, but it has never been raised sufficiently to pay adequate salaries to the teachers or lighten the constant financial burden. This is why we need an Endowment Fund, for we want to keep the fees within the reach of the class of pupils who have been her strength and pride all through her history, girls who come from simple homes, where there are high standards of training and good-breeding.

Abbot Academy wants to give the best to Andover girls and to the girls she brings to Andover from all over the world, and to do that she must have a better financial backing.

This is your chance to help. Do all you can to swell the Fund by helping along the various activities on May 6.

There will be three afternoon bridge parties: one at the home of Mrs. Douglas Donald in Shawheen Village; one given by Mrs. T. Dennis Thomson; one at Draper Hall in charge of Miss Bancroft.

On Saturday evening there will be the reading and concert at Davis hall, elsewhere announced.

Miss Carpenter, assisted by some of the undergraduates, is arranging an Historical Exhibition of photographs and articles illustrating the history of the school. This will be in one of the rooms of the John Esther Gallery on Wednesday and Saturday afternoon, with a small admission.

For the following week something on a large scale is planned, of which the details will be announced later, an Out-door Food Bazaar which will interest the whole town.

Attended Andover Conference

An important meeting of the Andover Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers was held with the First Congregational church of Dracut, Tuesday.

From Ohio we hear:

"I decided to bake two cakes at the same time, using Royal Baking Powder in one, and another powder in the other. The cake made with Royal was so appetizing and delicious, so finely grained and wholesome that in comparison, the other cake was not a cake."

AGRICULTURAL NEWS

Interesting Items From the County School at Haverhill. Helpful Hints to Farmers

Home Demonstration Work

A most encouraging development in the Extension Service for the home is the fact that some of the towns are holding community meetings for the purpose of planning their projects for the coming year. This means that a larger number of women will be able to state their preference as to subjects, choosing nutrition, clothing, household management or some community problem like the school lunch. Also, a leader will be chosen for each project. Where we already have an active local leader, she will be retained but all of the responsibility for every project will not devolve on one woman. These communities will be all ready to begin on their projects in the fall with no preliminary meetings. Merrimack and Topsfield are to hold such meetings this week.

Notes on Club Work

Garden clubs are being organized in several towns and cities. The interest in this work seems to be reviving somewhat from the release it suffered after the war. Several boys and girls are going to attempt the pig club work. The improvement in live pork prices has helped to increase the interest in swine raising. Last year one boy made a profit of $12.00 on a pair of pigs. He fed large quantities of green feed as a substitute for part of the grain ration. Handicraft club exhibits will be held the latter part of April. The winner in each of these clubs will be taken to the shipyard at Essex to study the construction of schooners. The boy who makes the highest score in the County, wins a trip to Amherst.

Next week County Club Agent DeQuoy will visit several prominent poultry farms such as Upland Farms, Ipswich and the Lord Farm at Methuen. This sort of work will certainly be an inspiration to the poultry club members.

Miss Bunce, Home Demonstration Agent, will speak at the West Boxford Grange on May 2 on home economics.

County Club Agent DeQuoy, accompanied by Miss Murdock, State Club Leader from the Mass. Agricultural College have been visiting the Home Economic Club exhibits in Lynn, Danvers, No. Andover, Merrimack, Essex, Ipswich, Rowley, Newbury, Salisbury, Georgetown, Grovesend, Methuen, Amesbury, Newburyport, Andover, Middleton. The fine work accomplished by these girls and boys is remarkable.

Instructor Mostrom will speak at the regular meeting of the Houghton Horticultural Society of Lynn on May 3rd. Subject: "What Science is contributing to Horticulture."

Instructor Hannaford will be the speaker at the Middleton Grange on May 10th. He will speak on "Doctors Influencing Egg Production."

Promising Student Projects

The classroom work of the agricultural department will end on Friday, April 28th. Already a large number of students have been released to take up regular summer work. They will be visited regularly by their instructors. The work has been very intensive and continuous since September with little vacation time. In fact, many of the students have studied extra hours and also have returned on Saturdays for elective work.

It is a fact that practically every student has secured satisfactory agricultural work for the season. Many parties who have formerly employed students have again engaged students for this year, a condition very satisfactory to the School authorities when it is remembered that so many are seeking employment this year.

George M. Garland, 1922, is this summer carrying on a man-and-horse fruit and garden project at his home in Andover. He has ranked high in his earlier projects, and last summer had a valuable experience on Coonsamasset Ranch at Falmouth.

Several of the students of the Home-making Department have already arranged for their summer projects. Marion Hansen of Beverly of the senior class will have charge of the summer canning clubs in Haverhill, and Frances Brown of Danvers, also a senior, is going to Andover.

Eric Bergstrom of Lynn of 1923, has a fine project at the greenhouses of A. C. Burrage, Beverly Farms. The largest collection of Orchids in the U. S. is to be found there. He has charge of several greenhouses. At present every energy is being expended in preparation for the flower show of native plant material to be held in Horticultural Hall, May 4-11.

Punchard 4-Haverhill 5

A closely contested game Wednesday on the Andover playfield between Punchard and Haverhill High resulted in a victory for the visitors, but not until ten innings had been played.

No scoring was done in the first two innings by either side and then Haverhill scored two runs in the third and one in the fourth. Punchard got three runs in the fourth and in the sixth each team scored.

No runs were gained by either side through the ninth inning and as the teams were tied another inning was played in which Haverhill scored.

Stanwood for Haverhill did good work behind the bat putting out 12 men. Buchan of Punchard at first caught three men out. Russell Carter and Stewart substituted.

The line-up and score follows:

In the work on grapefruit storage the most serious difficulty encountered was the tendency of the grapefruit to "pit" in cold storage; that is, to develop sunken spots in the skin. These spots did not affect the flavor of the fruit, but the appearance was less attractive and made the fruit unmarketable in competition with smooth, yellow fruit. Pitting can be largely controlled, it has been found through these experiments, by curing the fruit in a warm room at about 70° F. for 2 or 3 weeks, and then placing it in cold storage at 32° F. for a longer storage period.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK IS OBSERVED

May 1 Sees Inaugurated First General Campaign of Kind in Service.

Without the Postal Service, business would languish in a day, and be at a standstill in a week. Public opinion would die of dry rot. Sectional hatred or prejudice only would flourish, and narrow-mindedness thrive.

It is the biggest distinctive business in the world and it comes nearer to the innermost interests of a greater number of men and women than any other institution on earth. No private business, however widespread, touches so many lives as often or sharply; no church reaches into so many souls, flutters so many pulses, has so many human beings dependent on its ministrations.

"Postal Improvement Week" has been set for May 1, by the Postmaster General. This is the first general campaign of its kind in the Postal Service for several decades. Business men and their organizations, large users of the mail, newspapers, motion pictures, advertisers, and the entire organization of 328,000 postal workers are to be enlisted in this country-wide campaign of interest in postal improvements. Your help is vital. Address your letters plainly with pen or typewriter. Give street address. Spell out name of State, don't abbreviate. Put your return address in the upper left hand corner of envelope (not on the back) and always look at your letter before dropping in the mail to see if it is properly addressed. This care in the use of the mails is for your benefit and speeds up the dispatch and delivery of mail matter.

If you have any complaints of poor service make them to your postmaster. He has instructions to investigate them and report to the department.

COURTESY

It sticks in human relations like postage stamps on letters. The POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT expects it to be used by its postmasters and employees in dealing with the public.

Help them in its use beginning with POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK, May 1-6, 1922.

THANK YOU

WITHOUT STREET ADDRESS
YOUR MAIL IS DELAYED
AT OFFICE OF DELIVERY

The Dead Letter Office has been in existence ever since Ben Franklin started our postal service. Even then people addressed mail to Mr. Ezekiel Smithers, "Atlantic Coast," and expected Ben to know just where Zeke lived.

Perhaps they had Zeke's address in letters up in the garret, maybe a chest full of 'em, but then it was easier to let Ben hunt Zeke. Today people are addressing letters to John Smith, New York, N. Y., or Chicago, Ill., thinking Uncle Sam can locate him, which is just as incomplete as was Zeke's address of yore. The Postoffice Department asks you to put the number and street in the address. It helps you.

Trinidad Col.

How do you expect the Postal Clerk to know whether you mean Trinidad, California, or Trinidad, Colorado?

ALWAYS SPELL OUT THE NAME OF THE STATE IN FULL IN THE ADDRESS.

"MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT"

This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world.

HERE COMES A STRANGER!

Let's make our post office look neat, Mr. Postmaster. Straighten up the rural letter box, Mr. Farmer. Tidy up some, Mr. Rural Carrier. First impressions are lasting. Maybe Mr. Stranger, taking notice of these improvements, will come back, bringing you benefits. Start these with "POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK" May 1-6.

HUMANIZING THE POSTAL SERVICE

"There is no unimportant person or part of our service. It is a total of human units and their co-operation is the key to its success. In its last analysis, postal duties are accommodations performed for our neighbors and friends and should be so regarded, rather than as a hired service performed for an absentee employer."—Postmaster General Hubert Work.

Community Cars in Japan.

The community motorcar, owned jointly by 200 would-be motorists, is the latest thing in Japan. Fifty-five American cars have been sold by a recently organized Japanese company to 11,000 owners, each of whom paid $10 for his share in one of the cars. In return for his $10 the owner received a year's interest in the car. The year is divided into days and hours, and the specific time is allotted for each stockholder to ride. The hours have been so arranged that four people go riding with the driver during each period.

Shawsheen Laundry

Figured in terms of health and time—as well as money—does it pay you to launder at home?

Can't you put your time to more profitable use than to spend it over the wash tub?

And don't occasional doctor's bills occasioned by too much housework, more than offset the slight cost of letting us launder?

Shawsheen Girls' Club Forms

The first meeting of the Shawsheen Girls' Club was held at the home of Miss Maude Hollinghurst, Dumbarton street, on Friday evening. Officers were elected at this meeting and plans were made for a dance to be held in Balmoral hall on Wednesday evening, May 17.

The officers elected were: President, Marie A. Sirois; vice president, Maude Hollinghurst; secretary, Isabel Sirois; treasurer, Grace Burns.

Plans are being made for numerous activities to take place during the coming summer, the first of which will be the dance in Balmoral hall. Others will be announced later.

After the business a social hour was enjoyed during which several of the members entertained with piano and vocal selections. A buffet lunch was served by the hostess and the meeting adjourned until Monday, May 8.

The present members of the club are: Elizabeth Frederickson, Grace Burns, Emma Holt, Agnes Mura, Margaret Collins, Maude Hollinghurst, Gertrude and Sally McKay, Charlie Howard and Isabel and Marie Sirois.

The U. S. Club Meets

The U. S. Club met at the home of Mrs. Hollinghurst, Balmoral street, Monday afternoon. After the regular meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

Those present were: Mrs. Jeppson, Mrs. Bredbury, Mrs. Ingram, Mrs. Bonney, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Benjamin Babb, Mrs. Watts and Mrs. Hanson of Lowell.

Community Services

The community services were held Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in Post Office hall and Rev. C. W. Henry of Christ church was the speaker, taking his text from the Gospel of St. Matthew: "The Son of Man goeth as it is written of him."

Miss Virginia MacKnight was the soloist. Services will be held as usual on next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the Post Office hall and Sunday school at 9.30 in the same hall.

Tennis Courts Open

The tennis courts in Shawsheen were opened Sunday and are in fine condition. Already they are in great demand and villagers are looking forward to an interesting and busy season. The management of the Balmoral Spa have worked out a new schedule of renting the courts and it has already been found to be much more satisfactory than that followed last year.

Learned to Love Japanese.

Major General William Verbeck, former adjutant general, who is president of St. John's school at Manlius, N. Y., lays claim to being the first white boy of American parentage to be born in Japan. His father was a missionary who was attached to the Tokugawa government as an educator, and later helped to establish the Japanese Imperial university. Young Verbeck's playmate and friend was a Japanese boy whom his father helped to bring back from California when he was detained and stranded while in quest of an American education. The boy's name was Korekiyo Takahashi. He is now premier of Japan. "Through this Japanese boy," said General Verbeck, "and my association with his people, I learned to love them and to have the highest respect for their integrity."—New York Evening Post.

Superstition Common.

Book learning and intelligence seem to have nothing to do with belief in charms. In Roman days Sulla would not move a step unless he carried with him his small gold figure of Apollo, which was his amulet. In the present day in New York city a construction engineer of more than local reputation, and the most matter-of-fact type of person possible in most ways, carefully changes from one suit to the other a tiny gold hand that was given to him by an old woman near the front lines in France.

Immense Cold Storage Plant.
Chicago has one cold storage plant which will accommodate 21,000 tons of meat.

"I am not whistling, sir," replied the boy, "I'm paging Mr. Jones dog."

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XXVI.—MICHIGAN

The French missionaries and fur traders were the first whites to penetrate into Michigan.

Their first visits to this region date back to 1610. It was not until 1698 however, that the first actual settlement was made.

This was the mission at Sault Sainte Marie, founded by Father Marquette. Mackinac was established a few years later, and Detroit's growth was slow.

After the French and Indian wars the English took over this territory, and in 1774 it was formally declared a part of Canada.

Detroit rapidly grew in importance and during the Revolution was the base of operations for many raids by the British and Indians against the Americans.

By the terms of the treaty of Paris in 1783 this region became a part of the United States. What is now Michigan, Wisconsin, a part of Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio was known as the Northwest territory. After Ohio was set off as a separate state the Lower Peninsula of Michigan was joined to Indiana territory. In 1805 Michigan became a separate territory with about its present boundaries.

There was, however, a great dispute over a small strip of land in the extreme southern portion which was claimed by Ohio. This almost led to bloodshed, but was finally settled by Michigan releasing her claim to the disputed area and receiving as compensation an addition to the Upper Peninsula. On this basis Michigan was admitted to the Union in 1837 and became the twenty-sixth state.

Michigan has a unique situation, as it is bounded by the three largest of the Great Lakes, and divided into two peninsulas. This gives it a coast line larger in proportion to its area than any of the other states. It is named after Lake Michigan, which is the Algonquin word, "Michi-gan," meaning "great sea." It is entitled to 15 votes in the electoral college.

Irish Landlords Get Out.

Lord Gough, like many another Irish landowner, is leaving his home in the old country. Lough Curra castle in County Galway has lately been dismantled and its fine old contents disposed of.

The castle, which stands overlooking the Lough, is wonderfully picturesque. It was built for Lord Gort by Nash himself at a cost of $40,000 and was purchased by the Goughs after the Irish famine of 1847, when the viscount of his day ruined himself in the endeavor to feed his starving tenants. The present home of the Gorts in the Isle of Wight, East Cowes castle, was built by Nash, who designed it for his own occupation.

Another valuable property to go is Sir Hew Hamilton Dalrymple's romantic home, Luchin, on the ruins of Tanton castle, which figures in "Marmion." The property, with a fine acreage, includes the greater part of North Berwick. Sir Hew, it is good to hear, is at least not selling The Bass Rock in the Firth of Forth, which is his—London Mail.

Products of India.

The principal agricultural products of India include wheat, rice, oil seeds, cotton, jute, sugar, tobacco and tea. In British India (in 1919-1920), 255,000,000 acres had crops growing on them, about 31 per cent being rice crops; 9 per cent wheat; 38 per cent other pulse and food grains; 7 per cent cotton, jute and other fibers, and 5 per cent oil seeds. Jute cultivation has been very profitable. The mineral products, besides mica, rubies and jade, include salt, the production of which is about 1,891,000 tons. In 1919 the output of coal in India was 22,628,000 tons, nine-tenths of it coming from Bengal, Orissa and Bihar; crude petroleum (chiefly from Burma), 808,000,000 gallons; manganese ore, about 538,000 tons; salt-peter, 18,000 tons; wolfram, 3,577 tons; monazite, 2,024 tons, and gold, which is nearly all from Mysore, about 507,000 ounces.

American Woolen Loses to Abbot Worsted

Saturday was an ideal day for the staging of the American Woolen-Abbot Worsted game at the Balmoral Playing Field. Fully 1000 enthusiasts witnessed the game. Abbot Worsted excelled all through the game and beat the Woolens by four goals.

Much interest was centered in this game as the championship of the league was at stake according to soccer experts. Both teams had trained specially for the occasion and prior to the fray considered themselves set to win the honors for season 1921-22.

The American Woolen Company band furnished music and kept the fans in good humor.

After ten minutes of play, Abbot Worsted settled down to business and commenced to get their machine-line combination working. Righton was severely pressed and the veteran did admirably well in staying off a scare at this time by cleverly stepping in and blocking the Abbot's left wing on many occasions.

Abbot's opened the scoring when McMaster called away on the left and centered for Kershaw to drive hard and low for the goal. Hogue threw himself down at the ball. He made a great stop but lost possession and Page rushed in to place in the net for the first score after thirty minutes of play.

Five minutes later, Abbot Worsted increased their lead when Caldwell handled in the penalty area in the act of clearing. Referee, Dobson immediately awarded a penalty kick.

Shortly before half-time Kershaw scored number three from a good center from McMaster.

The second half was void of a contest as Abbot Worsted had everything their own way, and although the fans lost some interest in a game that is one-sided, they showed their appreciation of the Abbot Worsted players for the way they combined and manipulated the ball in such a clever manner.

In the second half the fourth goal was scored by Cogrove, making the Abbot Worsted the easy winners by the score of 4-0. The lineup:

American Woolen—Hague; Righton and Caldwell; Glas, Butler, Watson; Dundas, Jones, Ormrod, Inch, Law.

Abbot Worsted—McIntosh; Ross and Hulse; Duncan, Kelley, Cogrove; Kane, Kershaw, Page, McMaster, Farquhar.

Referee, V. Dobson; linesmen, J. Higginbotham and P. Farquhar. Time of game, two 45-minute periods. Goal scorers, Page 1, Kershaw 2, Cogrove 1.

Shrunken Body Is Two Feet Tall.
Preserved better than many an Egyptian mummy, a shrunken body of an Indian chief who died more than 400 years ago has been brought to the United States by Juan Kriatel, a Peruvian engineer. The mummy is only 25 inches high, for the body was shrunken and preserved by a secret "pickling" process known only to the South American Indians.

Tradition records that this is the mummy of Kurruba, a Peruvian chief who led his tribe against the Spaniards in 1535. The beads worn by Senor Kriatel were found with the shrunken warrior.—Popular Science Monthly.

NO LONGER WEAPON OF WAR

The Mace Today Is, However, in All Countries a Recognized Symbol of Authority.

In the days of old armory the mace was a military implement used for dealing heavy blows. It was frequently carried by horse-soldiers at the saddle bow, where it was suspended by a thong which passed through the upper part of the handle; this thong was wound around the wrist to prevent its loss by the force of a blow. It could be conveniently wielded with one hand and had many forms. The head was of ten spikes, and sometimes consisted of six, eight or more radiating blades, grouped around a central spike, all of steel. In England during the time of the Plantagenets the mace was used in battles and tournaments, and was superseded by the pistol in the time of Elizabeth. The ornamental maces of parliament, the universities, and the city corporations may be traced to the Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries. The house of commons has possessed no less than three maces, and that of the lord mayor of London dates from 1793. In the congress of the United States the sergeant-at-arms has a small silver mace.

At the present day the mace is regarded as a scepter or staff of office. Maces are borne before or by officials of various ranks in many countries, as a symbol of authority, or badge of office, and the mace on the table of the British house of lords or of commons represents the authority of the house.

NEW YORKERS' LATEST SLANG

Word "Quaint" Has Found Much Favor Among Those Who Affect The Artistic Life.

"Quaint" is the latest word of the world that must have a new and uncommon adjective. It has quite outmoded "amusing" in the slang of the studios and among those who affect the artistic life. The dictionary meaning of the word—"combining an antique appearance with a pleasing oddity, fancifulness, or whimsicalness"—has been quite submerged in the passing craze for its use. When the governor's daughter in "The Tavern" said to the vagabond, "You are the quaintest man I ever knew" she did not really mean what the dictionary says the word means. She was admiring his powers of deduction. But the "latest" word had been worked into the speech and that was the desired thing. The tone always used in connection with "quaint" is patronizing, whether it is applied to a human being, a picture, or what not. The user invariably tries to give the impression that the object thus passed upon could have been done ever so much better if he, or she, had had a hand in making it. To be "quaint" nowadays is to be ever so slightly damned.—New York Herald.

WHY THE DOCTORS SEND RICH FOLKS to the SPRINGS in the SPRING

A well-known physician said:

"I send my rich patients to the fashionable American springs or the European spas (as they call springs over there) because it is the only way I can get them to give themselves the necessary Spring Cleaning."

"As they are not really sick, I cannot get them to take medicine faithfully or to change their diet."

"When Spring comes nearly every person is loaded up with poisonous waste matter that has been produced by the heavy meats, pastry and cooked vegetables of winter foods, the lack of exercise, insufficient bathing, heavy, airtight clothing, and other contributing causes."

"Unless this poisonous matter is removed from the blood, stomach, bowels and other organs in the Spring, there will be that tired and worthless feeling, gassy stomach, constipation, dizziness, nervousness and the generally run-down condition that may keep one miserable all summer, and perhaps end in fatal illness."

"My rich patients drink the spring waters by the gallon because it is fashionable. Thus they are flushed, washed out, cleansed. And as the waters carry salts and other needed chemicals they are taking medicine and don't know it."

"People in moderate circumstances get the same result by taking a good reconstructive medicine (such as Sanalt the Sensible Spring Tonic) and using ordinary common sense in their manner of living."

For a hundred years the doctors of New England have prescribed Sanalt the Sensible Tonic through all seasons, but especially in the Spring, as a reconstructive and cleanser. Sanalt purifies the blood, restores digestive power, regulates the bowels and stimulates the liver and kidneys to natural action. Thus it removes all waste matter, thoroughly cleanses the system and reduces temperature. SANALT THE SENSIBLE TONIC in this way restores vigor, clears the complexion and relieves nervousness. By ending flatulence it relieves the heart of pressure from the bloated stomach and thus stops heartburn, palpitation and other so-called heart troubles.

Sanalt the Sensible Tonic is one of the reliable old "WINSOL" line of household remedies. It is guaranteed. If not satisfactory your money will be returned. All obliging druggists sell SANALT.
